

COOPERATIVE OWNERSHIP & FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Highland Green owners are shareholders in a housing corporation and are represented by a cooperative board of directors guided by professional management that helps make decisions that shape the community.

While very similar to other forms of property ownership where you can sell your home at current market prices and deduct any mortgage interest or real estate taxes, cooperative ownership at Highland Green offers many other unique benefits.

You maintain the interior of your custom Highland Green home but you cooperatively share in the cost of such things as routine scheduled lawn care and snow removal; scheduled exterior maintenance such as repainting; inspection of your built-in safety systems; insurance on the structure of your home and use of the Community Center and all of its amenities. In other words, cooperative ownership and Highland Green's low-maintenance lifestyle allows for less time spent worrying about taking care of your home and more time enjoying your life.

The cooperative structure is the financial platform on which Highland Green was built and allows it to be a unique community. It ensures that the community evolves in accordance with the original vision of our founder with approval of co-op owners.

The contractual long-term management agreement between the cooperative and the founder allows for stability throughout the development of Highland Green, unlike a condominium development where there can be frequent changes in management.

With over 20 years of experience since the community was founded, the Highland Green cooperative shareholders and Highland Green Management have created a finely run operation, which offers not only financial strength but a stable reserve plan for the future.

Cooperative ownership at Highland Green; A partnership for success:

- A founder with a long track record of successfully managing thriving planned communities.
- A management team with the leadership and vision to guide the Highland Green residents.
- A marketing staff dedicated to excellence and to cooperation with residents to exhibit pride in the community and to promote, support, and influence the growth of the Highland Green community and lifestyle.
- A group of owners bringing their considerable talents and diverse backgrounds to bear to help ensure lasting value in the community and take pride in collective well-being.

QUESTIONS

Q. Is there a monthly fee associated with Cooperative Ownership?

A. Yes, owners pay a monthly fee that contributes to an operational budget, management, ground lease, common area maintenance, insurance, and contributions to a strongly planned replacement reserve fund for capital expenditures such as repainting of homes.

QUESTIONS CONTINUED

Q. Do I have any say about services and fees?

A. Yes, owners are represented by a volunteer and resident-elected Cooperative Board of Directors who, together with the Management Company, makes decisions that govern and shape the community.

Q. How are the fees established?

A. The expert staff of the Management Company creates a cooperative budget, which is reviewed by a resident Budget Committee. Their goal is to determine a monthly fee that accurately represents the expenses necessary to maintain appearance, value, and a top-class community, while controlling costs. Ultimately, the fees must be voted on and approved by each Coop's Board of Directors.

Q. Is the community financially stable?

A. Yes. The co-ops at Highland Green have assumed full financial responsibility for their collective assets and have embraced a detailed reserve study designed to fully cover expenses going into the future. Funding and enhancement of reserves helps to avoid any special assessments in the future.

Q. Is the community well managed?

A. Yes. Highland Green Management brings decades of experience in successful community management. The management team helps guide the cooperative boards in making decisions and meets with committees in order to promote and ensure the strength and stability of the community.

Q. Is there a fee when it is time to sell my share? How does the resale process work?

A. When it comes time to sell your home at Highland Green, there is a transfer fee equal to 8% of the contract price. For Quarry Phase 1, the newest co-op phase, homeowners, the fee is 10%, with the additional 2% being reinvested in the Quarry Phase 1 reserve fund.

For you as the shareholder, that means that you keep either 90% or 92% of all appreciation and equity from the sale of your Highland Green home. Unlike entrance fee models offered by some communities, this market-based approach provides shareholders with the possibility of the highest possible return on their investment.

In return for this fee, the Sales & Marketing office provides the following services:

- Coordinate and sponsor all marketing, advertising, professional photo shoot, Open House events and other publicity initiatives to promote the sale of your home. The sales team will also provide advice and resources that may help you prepare your home for sale.
- Identify your Buyer and oversee and coordinate building inspection and appraisal process.
- Perform closing and legal work.
- Since Highland Green is a cooperative form of ownership and not real estate, as a Buyer or Seller you are not subject to the Maine State Transfer Tax, recording fees, and other charges that are associated with a real estate closing.

The expenses identified as "Coop Responsibility" are included in the Coop monthly fees and assessments. The expenses identified as "Resident Responsibility" shall be the responsibility of the Resident, except that a Coop Board may elect otherwise. For example, a board may elect to treat certain costs that would otherwise be "Resident Responsibility" as "Coop Responsibility" provided that such additional services are made available generally to all Residents of the Cooperative. Certain construction defects may be covered by the limited one-year warranties provided by the construction companies and their subcontractors and by the developer of Highland Green. If any Resident has an issue which may be a construction or materials defect, please report it to the Director of HG Operations for review as to whether it is covered by any warranty. This Responsibility List is intended as a quick reference guide. However, nothing on this list shall operate in any way to change any of the terms and provisions of the Proprietary Leases or other Cooperative documents.
